

An important step was the DIN ISO 9001 certification in 2008. This ensures transparency to our customers. Furthermore, they benefit from quality and substantiated knowledge in well controlled processes. Our employees are very involved in the quality assurance process. As a process-oriented organization, our company works side by side with customers from the initial input to the finished part to adapt to their individual needs.

Since the beginning of the 2020 we are no longer part of an official certification. Our processes are still under control and very high standards.