

Years of experience allow us to offer a wide range of parts as well as assemblies. We solely work together with a pool of suppliers with the highest quality standards.

Many of our customers take advantage of experience and technical knowledge as a service in optimizing costs and production as early as the construction phase. Let us know, if you are interested.

That means Mr. Wick and his team collaborates with you in development phase to construct an optimized and therefore cost effective product. Our customers appreciate and have taken advantage of this assistance for many years.

We provide advisory support in all technical and logistical problems, as well as in the realization of an idea to a finished part and in using optimal material.
